Holiday Rentals in Cape Town : Haute Cuisine comes to Cape Town

Dining out is such an important part of the holiday equation and restaurants like The Test Kitchen in Woodstock provide ample flavour experiences to satisfy even the most inquisitive of palates.

In recent years, Cape Town has become known as a cosmopolitan city, comfortable alongside the likes of Paris, New York and London. International stars flock there, the Cape Town accommodation is amongst some of the best, the beautiful and the rich Summer there and now, some of the most sophisticated palates reside there.

Luke Dale Roberts' The Test Kitchen at the Old Biscuit Mill in Woodstock is the kind of venue that has elevated Cape Town into the realms of international foodie consciousness.

Not content to just create tasty food, The Test Kitchen prides itself on its creative and innovative cuisine, combining flavours to excite even the most well travelled palates.

The restaurant was recently described by the Cape Times as follows: "One of the most important things to remember when dining with Dale Roberts is that you should try to get every single flavour on your plate to combine. It's enlightening how they mingle and interact. And then partnered with carefully chosen wine, it's a culinary adventure."

The menu is exciting and innovative, not surprising as The Test Kitchen is one of Cape Town's most sought-after. Dinner venues.

The restaurant, which is to be the first of a series of collaborations, is not to be missed by any visitors to Cape Town who fancy themselves a bit of a foodie.
